I first worked with Allison Bliss in 2007 when I was at a pivotal point in my business. The "Knowledge is Bliss" processes she used helped me to develop a program that expanded my income and allowed me to contribute in ways that were exponentially more meaningful -- having impact in the field of servant leadership. I have turned to her again and again throughout these years, and this year she again went beyond my imagination of what I expected from her services.

Positive: Professionalism, Quality, Responsiveness, Value

I am so fortunate to have had Allison Bliss Consulting in my creative corner as I took an idea from seed to bud. We are still in the blooming process with our website (an outreach for spiritual mentoring) but I feel we have been "well tended" by Allison. She and her expert team of designers and tech people nurtured my idea, gave it form, and lived along side us while we struggled to patiently attend to what was growing. Allison brought her years of expertise to this project, allowing us to shortcut and bypass many "newbie" errors.

I heartily recommend Allison Bliss Consulting - and I believe that she can help you, too.

Allison Bliss provided the most comprehensive PR campaign I have ever seen... I wish I had this plan 5-10 years ago, even though I might not have been as clear about my marketing needs as I am today. Thank you, Allison!

Positive: Professionalism

Allison Bliss Consulting is a great fit for a company or a professional seeking advise on all things outbound communications and marketing. My experience was very positive. I engaged with Allison direct and received expert advise on my video project. She exceeded my expectations and additional concepts, mock ups and script ideas. I would highly recommend Allison Bliss Consulting to solve your outbound marketing and communication challenges.

My experience with Allison Bliss Consulting was staggeringly positive. Like a magician with a web-wand she helped me transform my visibility from practically hidden to high profile. Allison has the high integrity, sharp intellect, and savvy, strategic marketing finesse to can help any business or individual in whatever field they work within.
